How to Select a Beach Vacation Rental in Naples, Florida

Before you sign on any dotted lines, there are things to research and consider about a beach vacation rental. For example, be sure to look at any available photos of as many rooms as possible.

Most luxury beach vacation rentals are quite spacious, with many capable of sleeping up to nine guests--ideal for a friend or extended family getaway. But, make sure everyone fits comfortably. If the rental sleeps nine, then the dining room table should also seat nine, not six. Also, look for rentals with open layouts, as they make it easiest to mix and mingle.

Ask about services. Is there housekeeping provided or a service you can call? What happens if there's a plumbing problem? Is there management available to handle these issues?

Just like your home, every beach vacation rental should come equipped with smoke and carbon monoxide detectors.

So, do all your homework, and you're bound to have the most enjoyable and relaxing time at your beach vacation rental.
